The Pacific theater introduced our troops to new environments and cultures completely unfamiliar to most Americans. The Traveling Aggies are honored to partner with The National WWII Museum to offer a travel program that provides the unique opportunity to explore these relatively untouched Pacific island battlefields and landing beaches in the company of expert historians.

Victory in the Pacific journeys from Pearl Harbor—where it all started for the Americans—to the islands of Saipan, Guam, Iwo Jima, and Tinian, where the Enola Gay departed to drop the first atomic bomb on Hiroshima. With exclusive access to the most intriguing battle sites, rich historical context from world-renowned historians, and hand-selected oral histories found nowhere else, this tour promises to be a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity.

The Traveling Aggies are honored to have you as our guest as we experience sites rarely visited, accompanied by leading historians—Richard Frank and Jon Parshall, the foremost international authorities on World War II in the Pacific. These distinguished authors will guide you throughout the tour, providing insights and bringing the history of each location to life.

The tour culminates with a rare visit to the island of Iwo Jima. Now the site of a modern-day Japanese military base, the island is closed to the world, only open to foreign visitors one day per year. We will be there to commemorate the 74th anniversary of the Battle of Iwo Jima and remember the 6,821 Americans killed and 19,217 wounded during the bloody, relentless fighting.

Join us in March for an unforgettable journey that will take you to where World War II both started and ended, allowing you to experience the tragedy and triumph of America’s road to Tokyo.

Walk on the black sands of Iwo Jima...

Take a journey that centers around the story of the Americans who forged a road to Tokyo through courage, ingenuity, and sacrifice, and ended the war, at last. Retrace the grueling trail that led from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo Bay, explore the evolving strategy for fighting relentless Japanese forces in Asia and the Pacific, and examine cultural differences, logistical challenges, and the staggering range of extreme conditions that confronted American military forces.
Visit Iwo Jima, only accessible to Americans one day per year.

World-renowned experts on the War in the Pacific

Richard Frank, Author & Historian
Richard Frank is an international expert on the War in the Pacific and a veteran of the Vietnam War. After graduating from the University of Missouri, he was commissioned in the United States Army, where he served for nearly four years, including a tour of duty in Vietnam as an aerorifle platoon leader with the 101st Airborne Division. He completed studies at Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, DC. Soon afterward, he began research on his first book, Guadalcanal: The Definitive Account of the Landmark Campaign, which was published in 1990 and won the United States Marine Corps’ General Wallace M. Greene Award. Frank’s other publications include Downfall: The End of the Imperial Japanese Empire, which won the 2000 Harry S. Truman Book Award, and MacArthur. He has appeared numerous times on or consulted for television and radio programs, and was also a historical consultant and appeared as a key interviewee in the HBO miniseries The Pacific.

He is currently working on a narrative history trilogy about the Asian-Pacific War. Frank also currently sits on the Museum’s Presidential Counselors advisory board.

Jonathan Parshall, Author & Historian
Jonathan Parshall saw his interest in the Imperial Japanese Navy develop early in his childhood. As an adult, that passion led him to create the foremost website devoted to the Imperial Navy: combinedfleet.com, which he founded in 1995. Parshall’s book Shattered Sword: The Untold Story of the Battle of Midway, which he co-authored with Anthony Tully, is seen as the definitive account of that pivotal battle in the Pacific. He has written for the Naval War College Review, the US Naval Institute’s Proceedings and Naval History magazines, World War II magazine, Wartime (the journal of the Australian War Memorial), Flypast magazine, the Sankei Shimbun, and several overseas aviation publications. He has also illustrated numerous books on the Pacific War (including his friend Richard Frank’s MacArthur). Parshall is an adjunct lecturer for the US Naval War College, and has appeared on the History Channel, Discovery Channel, and the BBC. A graduate of Carleton College and the Carlson School of Management, he is currently working on a history of the year 1942, focusing on how the Allies transformed themselves to meet their respective challenges during that year. He also brings an intimate knowledge of Japan to the post-tour extension, having lived in Hiroshima with his wife in the 1990s.

Arrive a day early to experience a special visit to the Defense POW/MIA Accounting Agency (DPAA) Laboratory at Joint Base Pearl Harbor-Hickam. At the laboratory, historical research and DNA technology combine in an effort to locate and identify missing service men and women throughout the world. Special projects include identifying those killed in action on Tarawa and during the Korean conflict. After an included lunch, pay respects to those who fell in the Pacific at The National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific at Punchbowl Crater. The cemetery opened to the public on July 19, 1949, with services for five war dead: an unknown serviceman, two Marines, an Army lieutenant, and one civilian—noted war correspondent Ernie Pyle. Eventually, over 13,000 soldiers and sailors who died during World War II would be laid to rest in the Punchbowl.

Day 1, March 15: Arrival

Upon arrival into Honolulu International Airport, transfer to the five-star Westin Moana Surfrider, where you are welcomed by the Museum’s travel team. This evening, enjoy a welcome reception and dinner with your fellow tour guests on the Diamond Lawn of the Moana Surfrider as you watch a lovely island sunset.

Accommodations: Westin Moana Surfrider (R, D)
Day 2, March 16: USS Missouri, Pacific Aviation Museum, and Valor in the Pacific

Begin your exploration of the War in the Pacific where it all ended, on the USS Missouri, site of the formal surrender of the Japanese Empire to the Allied powers. Next, visit the Pacific Aviation Museum Pearl Harbor, an internationally recognized aviation museum on Ford Island that educates about and preserves aviation history while honoring aviators and their support personnel who defended freedom in the Pacific region. After an included lunch, spend the afternoon at the very place where a Japanese attack brought the country into the war. At the USS Arizona Memorial, pay tribute to the 1,177 men who were killed when the ship’s forward magazine exploded causing the ship to sink in a matter of minutes. Also visit the USS Bowfin (SS-287), a fleet attack submarine that fought in the Pacific during World War II and helped to make famous the term “Silent Service.” Bowfin was launched on December 7, 1942, exactly one year after the attack on Pearl Harbor. She was nicknamed Pearl Harbor Avenger, so it’s fitting that Pearl Harbor is her permanent home. The evening is free to enjoy Waikiki’s many shops and restaurants.

Japanese Surrender Card

Frank Borrell enlisted in the Navy in October 1941. In June 1944 he became a plank holder on the USS Missouri (BB-63), serving as a Gunner’s Mate Second Class. He witnessed the formal surrender of the Japanese forces to the Allied powers, and was given this commemorative card. The card was printed only for those who were present at this historic event.

THROUGH THEIR EYES

Remembering our fallen heroes
On that fateful morning, Boreen awoke before 0700, ate breakfast, and reported to the disbursement office. When the call came for general quarters, he made his way to his station in the powder room of the #3 turret. When he arrived, there was no one there so he began to make his way to the main deck. Glancing through a large porthole on his way, he noticed a Japanese “Kate” torpedo plane right over the ship, and realized that this was not a drill. He began to seal the watertight doors when a torpedo hit the Oklahoma, ripping into the adjacent compartment.

Boreen was immediately covered in oil, and the compartment that he was in began to fill with water. He climbed out of an open hatch above him into the next level, and eventually made his way to the main deck, arriving just in time to see the USS Arizona (BB-39) explode. As a Japanese “Zero” began to make a pass down Battleship Row, Boreen dove into the water and hid beneath the mooring camel, which separated the Oklahoma from the USS Maryland (BB-46). The 21-jewel Bulova watch he was wearing stopped at the exact second he hit the water at 8:04 a.m., and he later donated it to The National WWII Museum, where it is displayed in the new exhibit, The Arsenal of Democracy: The Herman and George R. Brown Salute to the Home Front.

The Strategic Island of Saipan

The wreckage and debris of battle lie virtually untouched across the Mariana Islands of Saipan, Tinian, and Guam. Vestiges of the violent struggle to wrest control of the strategically important islands are still visible today.
After a relaxing morning at leisure, fly to Saipan, where a ferocious battle raged for over three weeks from June 15 to July 9, 1944. Granted to Japan after World War I, the island was home to the Japanese forces that attacked Guam on December 8, 1941. At the same time the Allies secured Rome and were fighting in Normandy in 1944, American troops had advanced within striking distance of Saipan. If captured, Saipan and the neighboring island of Tinian offered airfields from which B-29s could attack the Japanese home islands. Once ashore on Saipan, Americans faced challenges in Saipan’s formidable geography, a significant civilian population, and Japan’s willingness to fight to the last man.

Accommodations: The Kensington Hotel Saipan (B, D)
Saipan is about 1,300 miles south of the Japanese home islands. It is a small, pistol-shaped island about five miles wide and 18 miles long, which had tremendous strategic value for the United States.
Day 4, March 19: Explore Saipan

The Battle of Saipan moved from south to north with the invasion beaches located on the southwest coast. After American forces secured the southern third of the island along with the airfield, the Japanese continued their relentless assault. Today, guests will stand on the landing beaches, explore the bomb magazine used to supply the planes attacking Guam on December 8, 1941, and participate in an incredibly moving visit to the cliffs where thousands of Japanese civilians and soldiers committed suicide upon realizing that Saipan was lost. Tour stops also include a scenic drive through Purple Heart Ridge, Suicide Cliffs, American Memorial Park, the remains of Aslito Airfield, Kili-li Beach, Last Command Post, and Tank Beach.

Remembering our fallen heroes
As soon as the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Michael D. Mervosh decided to enlist in the Marine Corps to fight for his country. As soon as he turned 18 in September of 1942 and graduated high school, Mervosh entered boot camp training at Parris Island, South Carolina. Upon completing Marine Corps Boot Camp, Mervosh went to Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, for infantry training and to learn how to operate a machine gun.

Mervosh and his training battalion eventually made it to Camp Pendleton in San Diego, California, where he was assigned to Charlie Company, 24th Marines, 4th Marine Division. His division would be the first in the Marine Corps to go straight from training in the United States directly into combat. Mervosh entered combat in the Marshall Islands, fighting on the islands of Roi and Namur. Following the battle, the 4th Marine Division then went to Maui for rest and resupply before heading into combat again.

On June 15, 1944, Mervosh made his way ashore on the island of Saipan under intense enemy fire. Within the first few hours of the fighting, Mervosh and his fellow Marines received a blow to their morale when their battalion commander was killed, but they kept up the fight. Faced with little drinkable water and fighting disease on the island, casualties began to mount. Unlike any of the previous battles they had fought, the Marines also encountered a number of civilians on Saipan. Upon reaching the northern side of the island at Marpi Point, now known as Suicide Cliff, Mervosh witnessed men, women, and children jumping to their deaths terrified by Japanese propaganda that warned they would be tortured and killed by US troops. That moment was one that would be etched forever in his brain.

Mervosh’s combat was not over. He took part in conquering the neighboring island of Tinian, enabling the B-29 Superfortress bombers to utilize its airfields to bomb mainland Japan, and after his fighting at Saipan and Tinian, Mervosh began to see himself as a true combat veteran.

Little did he know that in February 1945 he would face the most intense combat that he would see during his 35-year career in the Marine Corps on Iwo Jima. “Iron Mike” Mervosh saw combat in World War II, Korea, and Vietnam. During his time in the Marines, he served in every enlisted rank from Private to Sergeant Major. He served in five different Marine Divisions, spent time as a drill instructor at Parris Island, South Carolina, did two tours of recruiting duty, and two tours on the drill field. His final assignment was the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific Sergeant Major. Upon his retirement on September 1, 1977, Mervosh was the most senior enlisted man in all of the Armed Forces.

The island of Tinian
The island of Tinian is just minutes away from Saipan by air. After arriving at Tinian International Airport by privately chartered aircraft, embark on a tour of iconic North Field. The airfield today is a mixture of modern monuments and memorials with buildings and vehicles in varying states of preservation and decay. Explore a massive Japanese fuel storage facility where damaged oil drums still remain today. Stand above the bomb pits from which “Little Boy” and “Fat Man” were loaded onto the B-29s Enola Gay and Bockscar. Walk the surprisingly narrow White Beach where the US Marine Corps landed to secure the island where debris from the battle remains today. Upon departure from Tinian en route to Saipan, your plane will embark on a scenic flyover of Tinian and the places you visited, giving you an aerial perspective of the day’s touring.

Watch of Colonel Paul W. Tibbets Jr.

This watch was worn by Colonel Paul W. Tibbets Jr. while at the controls of the Enola Gay on August 6, 1945, during the atomic bombing of Hiroshima. The watch was later refitted with a custom band commemorating the historic event.

Remembering our fallen heroes
Eugene DiSabatino

Eugene DiSabatino joined the US Army in 1943. After completing basic training, he was assigned to attend Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) for civil engineer training, and then was sent to New York University (NYU) for additional training. While at NYU, he was selected by Army officers for a special assignment in Los Alamos, New Mexico.

Upon arrival at Los Alamos, DiSabatino learned that he was part of the very secretive Manhattan Project. He was informed that he was restricted to that base, and that he would wear civilian clothes while living in officer quarters. Having to disguise himself as a civilian caused tension with some soldiers who thought he was a draft dodger. He was told to not salute, ignore Army protocol, and pretend to be a civilian when around others who may be observing his actions. The projects that DiSabatino worked on were so secretive that he had people working under him who had no idea what they were working on.

While at Los Alamos, DiSabatino worked under Admiral Frederick Ashworth on two major projects. The first was to develop ballistic tables for use on the Norden bombsight at 30,000 feet by a B-29 Superfortress carrying a payload of five tons. DiSabatino’s second task was to develop an assembly process for loading an atomic bomb aboard a B-29, fusing it in flight, and then deploying it over a target. After completing this work, he was sent to two top-secret Air Force test sites, one at Wendover, Utah, and the other at Salton Sea, California, with the 393rd Bombardment Squadron. After completing testing, DiSabatino was shipped immediately to Tinian for assisting with the loading of the atomic bomb “Fat Man” into the B-29 Bomber nicknamed Bockscar. To his knowledge, he was the last person to lay hands on the bomb before it left Tinian, bound for Nagasaki on August 9, 1945.

Day 6, March 21: Journey to Guam

After a relaxing morning on Saipan with optional leisure excursions to swim at Kilili Beach or visit the museum at American Memorial Park, board a short flight this afternoon to Guam. A US territory since the end of the Spanish-American War in 1898, Guam was attacked by the Japanese on December 8, 1941—technically the same day as Pearl Harbor, due to its location on the other side of the International Date Line. The Japanese occupied Guam until August 1944, when the island was liberated by the US 3rd Marine Division and 77th Infantry Division. This evening, check into Dusit Thani Resort before dinner at leisure.

Accommodations: Dusit Thani Resort (B, L)
In July 1944, US forces liberated the island of Guam after weeks of fierce fighting, leading to over 7,000 American casualties and over 18,000 Japanese killed.

Remembering our fallen heroes
Father Jesus Baza Duenas

Father Jesus Baza Duenas, only the second Chamorro to be ordained a Catholic Priest, was an instrumental figure of resistance during the Japanese occupation of Guam. Father Duenas led the Church on Guam until his execution at the hands of the Japanese, nine days before American troops landed on the island. His resistance in the face of Japanese oppression and his sacrifice during the occupation made him a local hero to the Chamorro.

During the Japanese occupation of Guam, all missionaries were forced to leave the island. Only the two Chamorro priests were allowed to remain. In addition, the Japanese sent two of their own priests to the island to convince the Chamorro people of the benefits of Japanese rule. Duenas did not accept the leadership of the Japanese priests, and he began a program of active and passive resistance, reading American magazines in public, humming American songs in the presence of Japanese soldiers, and spreading news of the Japanese defeat in Saipan.

Following the fall of Saipan, the Japanese treatment of the Chamorro population worsened. The locals were forced to build defenses, and many were detained in camps with limited food and water.

The Japanese also renewed efforts to find any Chamorros who assisted US Navy radioman George Tweed in evading capture. Duenas was arrested on July 8, 1944, and faced numerous beatings and other torture methods during the Japanese attempt to force him to name the Chamorros who helped Tweed escape. He continued to refuse, and the Japanese executed him on July 12, 1944. In 1948, the Father Duenas Memorial School was established near the spot of his murder to carry on his legacy.

Day 7, March 22: Guam

Taking place after the liberation of Saipan, the American invasion of Guam applied some of the lessons learned during the Battle of Saipan, including a 13-day bombardment of the islands. Visit Asan and Agat Landing Beaches, where the US Marine Corps landed and faced stiff Japanese resistance. Continue to explore the terrain of Guam, including Ga’an Point overlooking Apra Harbor, which is home to monuments dedicated to the 1,880 US servicemen who lost their lives during the defense of Guam, to the liberators of Guam who retook the island in 1944, and to the 1,170 native Chamorro soldiers and 14,721 locals that perished during this period. This evening, an engaging panel discussion with museum historians and featured speakers Richard Frank and Jon Parshall will illuminate the significance of our visit tomorrow to the Island of Iwo Jima and the 74th Reunion of Honor Ceremony.

Day 8, March 23: The 74th Commemoration of Iwo Jima

Early this morning, board a privately chartered flight to Iwo Jima to take part in the 74th anniversary commemorations on the island. The Island of Iwo Jima, now named Iwo To, is open only once per year for this very special Reunion of Honor. On arrival, guests may take the opportunity to hike to the top of Mt. Suribachi, where the iconic flag-raising photo was taken, and attend a joint American and Japanese Water Blessing Ceremony. With the Museum’s veteran guests, explore the volcanic rock beaches, the unique rugged terrain of the island, and reflect on the extreme American loss in this battle: 26,000 casualties in 36 days of combat. Roughly one American for every three who landed on Iwo Jima became a casualty. This day provides a unique opportunity for each guest to honor the men who fought in this historic battle, as well as the Gold Star Families who also gave so much for the capture of this island. Time is provided to absorb as much of the atmosphere and the emotion involved in this iconic American battle before returning to Guam this evening.

John Barton Leonard served as a war correspondent in the Asia-Pacific Theater, and was present for the assault on Iwo Jima. This photo was taken on “Iwo Jima Day,” as transcribed on the handwritten caption. “Among rocks in the foreground you can see emplacements. To the right are tanks on high ground where they didn’t stay long. Small arrows are emplacements which flanked beach. Large arrow is tank but what are not visible are men, which were running and dropping— and bullets which were criss crossing over beach.”

Day 9, March 24: Guam

Enjoy the day at leisure in Guam to unwind from the emotionally charged day on Iwo Jima. Take advantage of the amenities at the Dusit Thani Resort, participate in a cultural excursion, or visit the Senator Antonio M. Palomo Guam Museum & Educational Facility. In the evening, a special Farewell Reception and Dinner recaps the highlights of the tour and offers a glimpse of what is to come on the Road to Tokyo and The Battle for Peleliu optional post-tour extension programs.

Day 10, March 25: Depart to the US

Depart the Dusit Thani Resort this morning and transfer to the Guam International Airport for flights home or onward to one of our optional extension programs. (B)
The tour examines cultural differences, logistical challenges, and the staggering range of extreme conditions that confronted American military forces. Conveyed through artifacts from The National WWII Museum’s collection (including the watch worn by the pilot who dropped the atomic bomb), oral histories, world-renowned historians, and veterans who experienced the war first-hand, this journey is the story of a world that was unimaginably alien to the American GIs—a conflict of searing brutality, and a theater of war where nature could be as dangerous as the enemy.

Japanese Flag

This flag was taken off the body of a dead Japanese soldier by Bruce Burga, a Marine in the 2nd Marine Division on Saipan. The handwritten script on the flag identifies the deceased as a member of an elite unit, the Japanese Special Naval Landing Forces, and describes a victorious combat parachute jump the unit conducted in Indonesia in 1942. The dead Japanese soldier’s entire unit was wiped out by naval gunfire on the night of June 16, 1944.

Jack Lucas Wallet

Shortly before the Battle of Iwo Jima, Jack Lucas penned this note to put into his wallet. Lucas wanted to be sure that the wallet, along with the $16 it contained, would be returned to his mother, Mrs. Radford Jones, if anything should happen to him. During the battle, Lucas threw himself on two Japanese hand grenades and was badly injured, an action for which the 17-year-old marine received the Medal of Honor.

Item from the career of John Barton Leonard who served as a war correspondent in the Asia-Pacific during the war. Leonard was present for the assault on Iwo Jima and the recapture of the Philippines. He later wrote about the atomic bombings, the end of the war, and postwar period. Pictured here is a Naval Gunfire Map listing specific areas for the US fleet to shell with which type of shell and for how long for Iwo Jima.

Join the Museum on a journey of a lifetime to an island populated with so many WWII artifacts that it is a living battlefield museum in its own right. Explore the landing beaches and relics of an island visited by only handfuls of tourists each year, and walk the landscape that continues to embrace the souls of the thousands of American soldiers that perished here. A combination of local battlefield guides, expert WWII Museum historians, and international War in the Pacific expert and featured historian Richard Frank will illuminate the sights and sounds of an island frozen in time.

Part of the independent nation of Palau, Peleliu measures roughly six miles long and two miles wide. The island’s infrastructure is built upon roads constructed by the Seabees in the months after the battle ended. Just beyond the roads lies a network of runways, bunkers, and caves that all tell a story. Our tour highlights include stopping at key sights that are immortalized in the HBO miniseries The Pacific, including the heavily defended landing beaches and airfield, as well as the accompanying administration building, Bloody Nose Ridge, the remains of a Japanese Zero, Japanese bunkers and caves, and numerous Marine Corps and US Army landing craft scattered throughout the island.

On the last day on Peleliu, choose between excursions to the mud baths of the Rock Islands, a deep sea fishing experience, or a cultural tour of the island’s capital city of Babeldaob, whose capital building is a replica of the American capital.

Accommodations are at the five-star Palau Pacific Resort on the nearby island of Koror, and transportation each day to Peleliu is aboard a comfortable, privately chartered ship sailing through the Rock Islands, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, and past a submerged Japanese Zero. Don’t miss this unique journey into one of the hardest-won victories in the Pacific.

After visiting Pearl Harbor, exploring the liberation of Saipan, and standing over the atomic bomb pits on Tinian, The National WWII Museum’s Road to Tokyo optional post-tour extension takes guests to the cities of Tokyo and Hiroshima—a moving close to an emotional journey.

The symbolism of the War in the Pacific is easily understood by two wristwatches locked in two significant moments in history: Roy “Swede” Boreen’s Bulova that stopped at 8:04 a.m. on December 7, 1941, in Pearl Harbor; and the watch belonging to Akito Kawagoe, a Japanese soldier stationed just over one mile from the blast, that stopped just after 8:15 a.m. on August 6, 1945, seconds after the atomic bomb detonation in Hiroshima.

Along the way, engage in discussion of the Japanese perspectives of the war and their methods of memorialization. A visit to the Yushukan War Memorial in Tokyo is likely to inspire discussion points at an evening lecture with featured historian Jon Parshall. The National Showa Memorial Museum highlights the condition of Japanese civilians during the war years. Once in Hiroshima, travel to the nearby maritime city of Kure and the “Yamato Museum” with a 1/10 scale model of the largest battleship ever built, and finish the tour at the Hiroshima Peace Memorial Park and the nearby Atomic Bomb Dome. Standing at ground zero is a fitting end to a remarkable journey through the War in the Pacific.

This Terms & Conditions, Limits on Responsibility, and Binding Arbitration Agreement is entered into by and between the Tour Participant and the National WWII Museum and co-sponsoring organization (collectively referred to as “the Museum.”

TOUR FARE
Your tour fare covers arrangements and services including hotel accommodations, meals as per the itinerary, gratuities, ground transportation, guiding services, and special tour inclusions as described within the travel program brochure. All fares are quoted in US Dollars, are per guest and are based on double occupancy. As indicated below, airfare to and from the tour destination is not included in your tour fare. The Museum accepts no liability for the purchase of non-refundable airline tickets.

Prices quoted are based on fares in effect at the time of printing and are subject to change at any time. On land and/or cruise programs, up to the time of full payment the Museum reserves the right to increase the tour price in the event of cost increases due to changes in supplier costs, currency fluctuations or fuel or energy surcharges and all such increases are to be paid to the Museum upon notice to the tour participant of such increases.

NOT INCLUDED
Taxes, unless otherwise noted in the travel program brochure; passport, visas and associated fees; personal expenses such as laundry, telephone calls and Internet access; accident/sickness, trip cancellation, and baggage insurance; gratuities to ship and hotel personnel, unless otherwise noted in the travel program brochure; optional sightseeing excursions; airfare, baggage charges on aircraft; local departure airport taxes; and associated local taxes, airport facility and security taxes and federal inspection fees not listed as included in the travel program; transfers and baggage handling to/from airport/hotel/ship on day(s) of arrival and/or departure if you are arriving earlier or later than and/or departing earlier or later than the scheduled group transfer(s); any overnight expenses on land due to flight schedule(s) or delays; meals, alcoholic or other beverages and all other services not specifically mentioned as included in the travel program.

PAYMENT SCHEDULE
To reserve your participation, submit an initial deposit of $2,000 per person within five (5) days of booking. A $750 per person deposit is due for any pre and/or post program options that you select. Final payment is due December 14, 2018. All reservations are subject to cancellation if payments are not received by the due date. Payment by check is preferred in order to reduce costs to the Museum. VISA, MasterCard and American Express are also accepted.

*In addition, applicable cancellation fees for confirmed additional hotel nights may apply. Tour cost is defined as the cost of any cruise, land, or air element purchased from The National WWII Museum.

TRAVEL INSURANCE
Because our cancellation policy is strictly enforced, we strongly recommend that you purchase trip cancellation insurance. In the event that you must cancel your participation, trip cancellation insurance may be your only source of reimbursement. Travel Insurance information will either be sent to you automatically by your alumni association, or will be included with your initial confirmation package from the Museum, if your association does not have a travel insurance partner.

HEALTH, MEDICAL AND TOUR REQUIREMENTS
All guests are required to advise in writing to the Museum at the time their reservation is made if they have:

- Any physical or mental condition that may require medical or professional treatment or attention during the tour;
- Any condition that may pose a risk to one’s self and/or other participants on tour;
- Any condition that may require health aids, i.e.: oxygen, walkers, crutches, etc., or any intention or need to use a wheelchair while on the tour.

By booking passage the guest represents and warrants that he/she is physically and otherwise fit to travel and that guests will comply at all times with applicable rules and regulations of the Museum. The Museum reserves the right without liability to require a passenger to leave the tour or to refuse to accept a guest as a tour participant who, in the sole judgment of the Museum, is unfit to travel, is a danger to himself or herself or to others, does not follow instructions of the tour leader, may distract from the enjoyment of the trip by others or may require care beyond that which the Museum is reasonably able to provide.

We highly recommend that participants purchase a travel insurance package that provides medical coverage since most U.S. policies do not provide coverage outside the United States.

LUGGAGE
Luggage will be limited to one (1) suitcase and one (1) carry-on per person to ensure that there is enough room on the motor coach for all passenger luggage. All luggage must be securely packed and clearly labeled. We recommend that all participants secure baggage loss and damage insurance that may be purchased for this tour. Please see airline weight and size restrictions for luggage on international flights. The Museum is not responsible for loss or damage to luggage or any other personal item during air travel, while in a hotel during land programs, on a cruise or while on shore excursions. Under no circumstances may dangerous items (i.e. explosives, firearms, liquid oxygen, combustible or illegal substances) be taken on the tour.
We recommend that you hand carry travel documents (passports and tour tickets), medications and valuables, and check with your airline regarding carry-on baggage restrictions. These items are the full responsibility of the guest at all times. The Museum shall not be responsible for the loss of or damage to such personal items.

LAND TOURS, LECTURES AND PERSONALITIES
All tours are operated by independent contractors. These independent contractors may impose additional terms and conditions and limitations of liability on tour participants. Other independent contractors retained by the Museum such as lecturers, guest personalities and entertainers are subject to change and/or cancellation without notice.

TRAVEL DOCUMENTS
All travel documents (air and tour tickets, passport) are the responsibility of the guest. It is also your responsibility to comply with all customs requirements. Without the required documents, you may be denied boarding and the Museum will not be liable for such denial or bear any financial responsibilities as a result thereof.

Security measures imposed by governments may change from time to time and you will be required to comply with them. We will endeavor to provide you with notice of measures which may affect you; but complying with any such requirement is your responsibility.

TRAVEL WARNINGS AND ADVISORIES
The Museum strongly recommends that tour participants review the destination country’s specific information at https://travel.state.gov/content/passports/en/alertswarnings.html and https://wwnc.cdc.gov/travel/notices.

LIMITS ON THE NATIONAL WORLD WAR II MUSEUM RESPONSIBILITY
The National World War II Museum Inc., a New Orleans, Louisiana based nonprofit 501C(3) organization, the sponsoring organization and its and their employees, shareholders, subsidiaries, affiliates, officers, directors or trustees, successors, and assigns (collectively “the Museum”), does not own or operate any entity which is to or does provide goods or services for your trip including; lodging facilities, airline, vessel, or other transportation companies, guides or guide services, local ground operators, providers or organizers of optional excursions, food service or entertainment providers, etc. All such persons and entities are independent contractors. As a result, the Museum is not liable for any negligent or willful act or failure to act of any such person or entity or of any other third party.

In addition and without limitation, the Museum is not responsible for any injury, loss, death, inconvenience, delay, or damage to person or property in connection with the provision of any goods or services whether resulting from, but not limited to, acts of God or force majeure, acts of government, acts of war or civil unrest, insurrection or revolt, bites from or attacks by animals, insects or pests, strikes or other labor activities, criminal or terrorist activities of any kind or the threat thereof, sickness, illness, epidemics or the threat thereof, the lack of availability of or access to medical attention or the quality thereof, overbooking or downgrading of accommodations, mechanical or other failure of airplanes, vessels or other means of transportation, or for any failure of any transportation mechanism to arrive or depart timely or safely. Participants assume all such risks as well as the risk of negligence by the Museum and specifically release the Museum therefrom.

If due to weather, flight schedules or other uncontrollable factors, you are required to spend an additional night(s), you will be responsible for your own hotel, transfers and meal costs. Baggage is entirely at owner’s risk. The right is reserved to decline to accept as a trip participant, or remove from a trip, without refund, any person the Museum judges to be incapable of meeting the rigors and requirements of participating in the activities, or who is abusive to other trip participants, leaders or third parties, or who the Museum determines to detract from the enjoyment of the trip by others. Specific room/cabin assignments are within the sole discretion of the hotel or cruise line.

The Museum reserves the right to change the itinerary or trip features at any time and for any reason, with or without notice, and the Museum shall not be liable for any loss of any kind as a result of any such changes. Ship schedules, port calls, hours of arrival and departure, sightseeing events, special programs and guest lecture series (if applicable), are subject to change or cancellation without prior notice. The Museum is not responsible therefore and is not required to compensate passengers under these circumstances. The Museum may cancel a trip (or an option) for any reason whatsoever; if so, its sole responsibility is to refund monies paid by the participant to it. The Museum is not required to cancel any trip for any reason including without limitation, United States Department of State, World Health Organization, Centers for Disease Control or other Warnings or Advisories of any kind. The Museum is not responsible for penalties assessed by air carriers resulting from operational and/or itinerary changes, even if the Museum makes the flight arrangements or cancels the trip. The Museum reserves the right to substitute vessels, hotels, itineraries or attractions for those listed in this brochure.

BINDING ARBITRATION
I agree that any dispute concerning, relating or referring to this Agreement, the brochure or any other literature concerning my trip, or the trip itself, shall be resolved exclusively by binding arbitration pursuant to the Federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C. §§1-16, either according to the then existing Commercial Rules of the American Arbitration Association (AAA) or pursuant to the Comprehensive Arbitration Rules & Procedures of the Judicial Arbitration and Mediation Services, Inc. (JAMS). Such proceedings will be governed by substantive (but not procedural) Louisiana law and will take place in New Orleans, LA. The arbitrator and not any federal, state, or local court or agency shall have exclusive authority to resolve any dispute relating to the interpretation, applicability, enforceability, conscionability, or formation of this contract, including but not limited to any claim that all or any part of this contract is void or voidable. Please understand that by agreeing to these terms and conditions, you (and we) are waiving our right to a trial by jury.

The Museum is not responsible for misprints in tour promotional material.
Road to Tokyo: Pacific Theater Galleries at The National WWII Museum in New Orleans retraces the grueling path that led from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo Bay, highlighting critical naval warfare as well as air and land campaigns. It includes the bloody battle for Guadalcanal and fighting in Southeast Asia, the Himalayas, Burma, China, India, and Alaska. Exhibits explore the evolving strategy for fighting relentless Japanese forces in Asia and the Pacific, examining cultural differences, logistical challenges, and the staggering range of extreme conditions that confronted American military forces in Asia and the Pacific.

Conveyed through artifacts (including a shark-faced P-40 Warhawk), oral histories, serialized “Dog Tag” profiles, short films, and re-created environments, this is the story of a world that was unimaginably alien to American GIs—a conflict of searing brutality, and a theater of war where nature could be as dangerous as the enemy. But this is also the story of the American spirit that carried the day: the dogged hard work of Seabees literally paving the way for island-hopping aircraft, scientists in a race to create vaccines against devastating new diseases, and daring commanders facing ever-changing obstacles with equal parts innovation and courage. Exhibit treatments bring to life the naval and air forces, the soldiers and marines, as well as engineers creating the machinery to cross vast distances and carry massive cargo.
